

Above; some serious rim-riding by Paul Black gets the job done versus Ben Bedor. Adam Lovejoy's No. 03 sits in the infield, done after he led early. Top right; Richard Petty did not make the show, but Kevin Whittum, Jr., paid homage to the King with his not-so-superbird. Right; more interesting entries, these from Scott Fowler, left, and Joe Pralicz, with a horse playing jockey. Below; Mike St. Germain's metric chassis didn't prove to be an advantage. Maybe the drag caused by his protruding antlers slowed him down. Bottom right; race-winner Doug Bandy might have benefitted from the minutes he spent digging out of a snow-bank. When the racing was as crazy as it looks in these photos, and only three cars survived to the checkers, hiding in the snow proved a wise strategy. Of course, look at all the fun he was missing.
